

Education with the Forest at “Bemaale Hahar” Elementary School in Matsuba

Dolev Shelef

This article describes the work of the “forest teacher” at Waldorf School in Kibbutz Matsuba. In this school, each class goes out once a week for a forest day under the guidance of a teacher, who was trained for it in the “Guardians of the Garden” organization. The article describes the work of the forest teacher and his experiences with the different classes according to the seasons. The importance and value of going out into the nature is revealed throughout the descriptions of the cases described in the article.