

The Place and Significance of Drama Studies and Plays in Teacher Training in the Spirit of Waldorf Education

Gilad Goldschmidt and Esther Naftali

Theater and drama studies play a very important role in Waldorf school and in the Waldorf teacher training. During the Waldorf training in David Yellin Academic College of Education in Jerusalem, the students perform in the fourth and last year a big theatre show project in which all the students take part. This article examines the effect of this project on the students and on their work as teachers after the training. We based the article on written feedbacks that the students wrote during the project and after it ended. First, we will present the main pedagogic principles of the Waldorf education and the teacher's training in David Yellin College, then we will present the processing of the students' feedbacks and their conclusions regarding the theatre show project.
